Project Description

The project comprises all activities within the organisation and realization of a valorisation conference. Therefore the project is defined through three working phases: In the initial phase preparatory tasks for the conference are carried out. In detail there is an evaluation of all relevant needs and project results. A concept is developed to put together the needs of project developers and users and the chosen projects including a comparison of their results. Contacts to potential users are established as well as co-operations between users and networking of stakeholders supported. A project website is created in order to provide a broader valorisation effect of the held conference, final results and conference materials. The second phase consists of all necessary activities for the organisation and accomplishment of the conference including the adjustment of the conference programme, the invitation of potential speakers and participants, the actual holding of the conference and after preparation of the conference materials and results. For a more efficient valorisation process, contacts to possible multipliers are also established. The end phase including follow-up actions consists of the gathering of workshop and overall conference results and the preparation of conference proceedings to spread the information also to non-participating users or groups of interested people. The meanwhile installed website gets further maintained and necessary actions are taken to meet the conference intents of generating new project ideas and building co-operations and networks between European project managers and partners.
